RECREATION AND LEISURE RESEARCH :

A SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY

by

Marion G. Marshall
Planning and Development Officer
Alberta Culture, Youth and Recreation
Edmonton, Alberta

This bibliography was produced with the assistance of Alberta Culture, Youth and Recreation as a service to persons working in the field of recreation.

INTRODUCTION

This bibliography is an attempt at a general listing of relevant recreation research references for the recreation professional or student. It is by no means completely comprehensive or exhaustive; however, it does have the advantage of generally presenting material which is readily available, and, of course, has a somewhat Canadian slant to it. For these reasons, it may prove useful to numerous persons.

In addition, because the author's background and experience is in the social side of recreation research, the bibliography naturally tends to favour that aspect of recreation and leisure. As a result of most recreation research being out-of-door oriented, again the bibliography takes on an outdoor recreation research slant.

The section on University theses and dissertations, it should be noted, was almost exclusively gleaned from a number of geographical theses reference sources. It is, therefore, only representative of geographical recreation research in Canada and to some extent, the United States.

A number of major periodicals, only a few of which are comprehensively covered by this bibliography, can be consulted by those interested in the field of recreation research. Some of these are: The Canadian Geographer, Annals of the Association of American Geographers, The Professional Geographer, Journal of Leisure Research, Journal of Applied Ecology, Regional Studies, the Journal of Environmental Education, Environment and Perception; the Geographical Journal, The Ecologist, Sierra Club Bulletin, National Parks Magazine, The Living Wilderness, Audubon Magazine, and Mature Canada.
